A

Abasiophilia: attraction to people in neck braces, wheelchairs, casts, or other devices that impair mobility. It may be part of a medical fetish or enjoyed because it restricts movement.

Abrasions: people who enjoy this fetish like giving or receiving cuts and scrapes.

Accidental stimulation: refers to accidental physical stimulation and situations that arouse adrenaline and cause arousal.

Acrotomophilia: fetish for amputees. Fetishists may prefer a specific type of amputee (arm, leg, etc). A person with a fetish for being an amputee has apotemnophilia. (There may be overlap with morphophilia.)

Actirasty: arousal by the rays of the sun. This can be enjoyed through sexual acts outside.

Agalmatophilia: a person with this fetish is aroused by statues, mannequins or other figurative representations. (This may be related to Pygmalionism, an attraction to items of one's own creation.)

Age play: role play in which one or both partners pretends to be a different age/stage. Types of age play include infantilism, Parent/child, and diaper play, among others.

Agoraphilia: fetish dedicated to sex in public places.

Amazons and authoritarians: fetish dedicated to physically strong women like Amazons, women with strong personalities, or women in positions of authority. (loosely related to FemDom)

Amaurophilia: kink for being unable to see, blinded or blindfolded during sex.

Anal penetration: a fetish for anal penetration with foreign objects (not sex toys or penises).

Anal toys worn under clothing: a fetish for using/wearing anal toys such as using butt plugs during the day and not just during sex activity. It may be a command of a submissive by a dominant, part of anal training to take bigger items or penises, and/or as part of foreplay.

Anal training: the practice of preparing one's anus for inserting large items.

Anasteemaphilia: a fetish for people over extreme sizes, i.e. a giant or a dwarf. It can be used to refer to attraction to partners of differing heights, even if those people aren't especially gigantic or tiny.

Anonymous sex: a kink revolving around anonymous sexual encounters where one or both parties is unaware of the other's identity. Gloryholes are a common form of anonymous sex, but they are not the only form.

Aquaphilia: fetish for water and having sexual activities in or around water. This can extend to a fetish for swimwear or posing in water, even if it doesn't involve sexual activity.

Asphyxiation: a highly dangerous kink dedicated to choking, smothering and strangulation. Autoerotic asphyxiation is self-choking.

Autogynephilia: a kink where men present/dress as women (gynemimetophilia refers to men impersonating women). Autoandrophilia is arousal at the idea of being a man.

Autofellatio: a kink where a man performs a blowjob on himself.

Autoplushophilia: a type of plushophilia where a person is aroused by the idea of being a stuffed animal, especially a cartoonish one.

Barebacking: sex without a condom.

Bathroom control: when the dominant person controls when, how and where the submissive can urinate or defecate.

Begging: kink for begging and pleading (to have sex, for release/orgasm, to perform an act, etc.). Begging is submissive in nature.

Belonephilia: affinity to pins, needles and sharp objects. (See also knife play.)

Blindfolds: a type of bondage that blocks a person's vision. See also amaurophilia.

Body Inflation: The practice of inflating or pretending to inflate a part of one's body, often for sexual gratification.

Bondage: restraint of a person, either by physical item (cuffs, rope, etc.) or instruction (known as mental bondage). Restraint can be full-body (vacuum beds, suspension) or involve a single body part such as the eyes (blindfold), mouth (ball gag), wrists or even thumbs. Bondage may include furniture and devices.

Body modification: kink for a variety of body modifications. This may mean anything that changes the appearance of a body from tattoos to piercings to saline injections, but this kink may also only refer to specific body mods such as lip sewing.

Branding: marking someone with a symbol, word, etc., typically, using a heated object (such as a metal hanger) to produce the brand.

Breast/nipple worship: the act of worshiping someone's breasts or nipples.

C

Castration: An extreme fetish involving removal of all or part of a man's genitals. This kink goes hand in hand with emasculation fetishes as well as ball busting, in which a man's balls are crushed.

CBT: Cock and ball torture (CBT) is pain applied to a man's genitals. It may be a form of punishment. CBT can involve shoes, sounding, stretching, impact implements and other tools.

CEI: Cum-eating instructions (CEI) involves a dominant or top ordering their partner(s) to eat their own ejaculate, and giving specific instructions on how to do so. Often combined with JOI.

Chasmophilia: aroused by crevices, caverns, or valleys.

Chastity: a fetish where someone's access to their genitals is blocked. Women wear chastity belts, and men wear cock cages that prevent erection and release. Also known as forced abstinence or forced celibacy. Chastity can be used as a form of self-denial or orgasm control, including ruined orgasms.

Choking: blood choking is the act of choking someone until they pass out. It is incredibly dangerous and can lead to brain damage. Choking is a type of edge play.

Claustrophilia: this fetish is the opposite of claustrophobia. A person becomes aroused or experiences orgasm through confinement to small spaces. This is a type of bondage.

Clothed sex (endytophilia): the affinity for sex while fully or partially clothed.

Cock and/or ball fetishization: an obsession with cock and balls.

Cock worship: similar to breast worship. This fetish involves verbal, physical and mental adoration of a penis – including fake ones (strap-ons).

Collaring: for many types of submissive, the act of wearing a collar shows submission, loyalty and/or devotion to a dominant. A collar may be seen as purely sexual or also romantic (similar to an engagement/wedding ring). Collars may be placed on in public or private collaring ceremonies, and dominants may provide instructions for wearing collars. The collar may be an actual collar purchased from a pet store, one that is hand-tooled or a safe-for-work necklace or choker that can be worn in non-kinky spaces.

Corsetry: the act of wearing a corset, sometimes to the extent of changing the shape and size of one's body. Tight-lacing a corset enables one to successfully waist-train. Some dominants may use tight-lacing to limit breathing. It's not just limited to your abs and tummy either.

Cross-dressing: dressing like a member of the opposite sex. For many people, it's not necessarily sexual, while it is for others. Cross-dressing can involve clothing, accessories, makeup, and wigs.

Crurophilia: A kink related to legs.

Crush fetish: a particular fetish relating to crushing small animals or objects. Squashing kink is a similar obsession.

Cupping: small cups or jars are applied upside down to the body, usually the back. Fire or a hand-pump creates suction that results in temporary bruising and a tight feeling. Extreme cupping can break the skin, but cupping is considered safe (the flame is only used for suction and doesn't burn the skin).

Dacryphilia: arousal caused by tears or crying.

Degradation - a fetish where a partner will use name-calling, bullying or trash talk. Usually the receiver is sexually aroused, but not always.

Dendrophilia: also known as Arbophilia. A sexual attraction to trees, either because they are phallic-shaped or because of the texture. May overlap with xylophilia.

Diapers: A person wears, and may use, a diaper. Sometimes they are diapered by a partner. This fetish is usually part of infantilism – but not always.

Discipline: giving or receiving punishment for perceived or defined infractions. Discipline is a major part of many power exchange relationships, and something typically desired by masochists and administered by sadists.

Dirty talking: having a kink for talking dirty during sex is pretty tame. Some people might not even consider it a fetish! See also narratophilia.

Doraphilia: playing with skin, leather, or fur. Hyphephilia is a similar fetish for touching hair, fur, skin and certain fabrics.

Double penetration: penetration of a vagina or ass via a combination of toys, penises or both. Double penetration may be part of a group sex scenario.

Dracophilia: a fetish for dragons. Fantasy fetish companies such as Bad Dragon make dragon dildos, including those that ejaculate!

DVP: stands for double vaginal penetration. Unlike double penetration (DP), which can be simultaneous anal and vaginal penetration, DVP involves two penises or one penis and one toy in the vagina. It can be satisfying for all parties; although, it requires lube and preparation. In DVP, only one partner may have enough room to thrust.

E

Edge play: Any “risky or extreme” kink or fetish. E.g.: choking, breath play, knife play, fire play, and any activity that results in bleeding.

Elastophilia: a fetish for stretchy materials including spandex, latex, silicone, etc. Elastophiles often enjoy bouncing on these materials or sinking deep down into something stretchy.

Electric play: playing with uncontrolled electricity is very dangerous and can even lead to heart failure. However, most people (aside from those with pacemakers, heart issues, and other implants), can safely play with TENS units or violet wands to explore this kink.

Enkuopoiphilia: fetish for impregnation.

Eproctophilia: arousal from flatulence (farts). It’s a type of olfactophilia

Exhibitionism: a common fetish for being naked and performing sexually in front of a person or persons. Masturbating for your partner is a mild form of this kink, but performing in sex windows or at BDSM shows and parties is a safe way to explore this fetish. Sex in public is partly exhibitionism. Related to agrexophilia, which is arousal when other people know about your sexual activities, and autagonistophilia, exposing oneself while on stage and being photographed. The counterpart of voyeurism.

Exoticism: fetishizing members and elements of Far Eastern culture (Japan, China, etc.), including fictional worlds inspired by these locations. A preoccupation with Geishas is common in the Western world, for example. See also Otherness.

F

Face fucking: an extreme form of blowjob where a real or fake cock is used to roughly fuck a partner's mouth. This kink isn't inherently dangerous, but it can be uncomfortable and lead to tears, gagging and even vomiting.

Face sitting: the act of a woman sitting on a man's face while he performs oral. Face sitting can include mild suffocation, but doesn't have to.

Face slapping: a slap across the face brings you to attention and corrects your mistakes.

Fat fetishism: The sexual attraction to overweight or obese people due to their weight and size. Gaining or feederism is a variation of fat fetishism where the sexual attraction/gratification is not solely gained from the "fatness" but more from the process of gaining weight/getting fat.

Fellatio: Oral sex performed on a penis. Not usually deemed a fetish or kink, but it can be for some.

Figging: using ginger root to create a burning sensation. It must be peeled before it can be inserted anally or vaginally.

Fighting/Wrestling: play fighting and wrestling is sexy because your body proximity as you struggle to maintain control.

Fisting: the act of penetration with a full hand. After they insert their knuckles – the widest part of their hand – they can curl their fingers into a fist/ball shape. Fisting requires time, patience, trust and lots of lubrication.

Flogging (flagellation): hitting someone with a multi-tailed tool known as a flogger. Depending upon the strength of the swing, flogging can range from warm-up to harsh impact that draws blood. Floggers tails come in many materials: fur, leather, suede, rubber, silicone, and ball-chain to name a few.

Food play: incorporating food into sex. This may mean using someone as a dish or table, covering your partner's body with food and licking it off (think whipped cream or chocolate sauce, but you can get creative!). A fetish for food is known as sitophilia.

Foot fetish (podophilia): a foot fetishist enjoys feet sexually. This may involve footjobs, licking, sucking, or massaging. Foot worship in a power exchange scene can take the form of polishing shoes or boots, even with a tongue, or worshipping feet!

Forced feeding: a kink for forcing someone to eat, potentially until they gain weight. This fetish is a type of body modification fetish. Feederism sometimes specifically refers to men feeding women, but can be used without any distinction.

Formicophilia: arousal by insects or by insects crawling on and nibbling the body. The fetish for bees and wasps specifically is known as melissophilia while an attraction to spiders is known as arachnophilia.

Frotting: rubbing of two penises together. One man may hold the penises together during this act. Similar activities include frottage (rubbing while clothed for sexual stimulation) and frotteurism (rubbing or fondling an unsuspecting/non-consenting person).

Furries: this kink is hot, literally. Furrries dress as animals or humanoid animal creatures, sometimes decked head-to-toe in fur. They often don animalistic dildos via strap-ons to enhance their furry play. Many furrries engage in role playing games and cosplay as part of their lifestyle, which can become quite expensive.

Note that some furrries engage only in costumes and roleplay only and no sexual activity (although some people do not see a distinction). To differentiate, "yiffy" refers to a sexualized furry fetish.

G

Gags: a form of mouth bondage. Gags come in many forms, but ball gags are the most common. They may also take the form of bit, cleave, pacifier, penis or spider gag, among others.

Gerontophilia: attraction to someone from a much older age group.

Golden showers: See watersports. A form of piss play.

Group sex (Polyterophilia): group sex and multiple party scenarios can be quite hot, but they can also be uncomfortable. Threesomes are one of the more common arrangements (and a fascination with three-person sex is known as triolism/troilism).

H

Haematomania aka hematolagnia : lust for blood and bleeding. May include wounds, vampirism or biting to draw blood. Potentially dangerous.

Harpaxophilia: the fetish for being robbed. Can be played as a role in consensual non-consent. Chrematistophilia is a similar kink for being forced to pay for sex.

Helplessness: any role in which someone is helpless. They may be the victim to their roleplay partner (robber, kidnapper, etc), or their partner may act as a savior (think of a princess who needs saving or an inept housewife).

Homeovestism: attraction to the clothing of one's own gender or by people wearing the clothing accepted as appropriate for their gender by society.

Hybristophilia: arousal by the knowledge that one's partner has committed a heinous act or crime. This can include cheating, lying, robbery, or murder. This is sometimes known as Bonnie and Clyde Syndrome after the American bank-robbing and murdering duo. One partner is turned on by the other's bad deeds. Some people find themselves attracted to criminals who are in prison.

Hypnotism: in an erotic situation, hypnosis could be a form of consensual non-consent. It's important to note that even hypnotized, the subject can reject suggestions/come back to full awareness.

Hypoxia: paraphilia for being submerged under water to restrict breathing, a type of erotic asphyxiation. This can be fatal.

Immobility: a kink involving bondage.

Impact play: any activity involving hitting, either with body parts or other tools. Hitting, punching, spanking, flogging, whipping and paddling are just a few forms of impact play, and intensity varies with the tool and effort.

Impregnation: the fascination with making someone pregnant/conception during sex. May also be referred to as "breeding."

Imprisonment: obsession with being locked inside cages, cells, coffins or other areas.

Infantilism: a specific type of age play where someone plays an infant/baby. This can involve pacifiers, diapers, bottles, etc. A second person may act as a nanny or parent.

Internal cumshots: similar to a semen fetish, but arousal is due to being ejaculated into rather than on.

Intercrural or interfemoral sex: thrusting between someone's thighs without penetration.

Intoxication: taking drugs or alcohol during or before a sex scene. Intoxication can lead to poor decision-making, risky behavior and mistakes that could be dangerous or even fatal, especially when mixed with edge play.

J

Jerk off instructions (JOI): Being instructed to masturbate and how.

K

Katoptronophilia: a fetish for having sex in front of mirrors. Some people are simply turned on by seeing themselves in a mirror.

Keraunophilia: a sexual fascination with thunder and lightning – similar to arousal from thunderstorms (brontophilia).

Kigurumi: this fetish is all about wearing anime masks, specifically men who wear anime-style masks of women.

Knife play: a type of edge play activity that involves actual knives or blades, or the implication of.

Lactation: a lactation fetishist is all about lactating mammaries, that is, boobs producing milk. Many women enjoy the sensation of nipple suckling, and their partners enjoy breastfeeding. Lactation fetishists may encourage lactation when it wouldn't naturally occur because the milk specifically is their kink (lactophilia), or engage in breastfeeding without milk.

Latex/rubber: latex, rubber, PVC and similar materials attract our eyes with their sheen. A lot of fetishists enjoy the tight feel on their skin or how it feels or looks on others. Also referred to as rubberists.

Lesbophilia: men with this kink enjoy lesbian sex more than your typical male. Some may go so far as to imagine themselves as women in girl-on-girl scenarios.

Lithophilia: a kink for rocks, stones, or gravel. This can be used non-sexually.

M

Macrogenitalism: a fetish for genitals that are particularly large. This isn't limited just to penises.

Maiesiophilia: sexual attraction to pregnant women or giving birth.

Maschalagnia: a fetish dedicated to armpits, including, kissing, licking and smelling. This kink may also involve inserting penises in the armpit for stimulation.

Masochism: enjoyment, more so sexually, of pain, punishment, and torture. Masochists are often but not always submissive.

Mechanophilia: sexual attraction to and arousal by machines. While other fetishes objectify robots, this one can include a wider variety and may also go along with the desire to have sex in or on a machine such as a car, bike, plane, etc.

Medical play: role play involving medical scenarios, medical implements (scalpels, needles, speculums, etc) and/or medical uniforms. Medical play often involves an examination of one person by the "doctor," who may take advantage of the situation. Play piercing is also common in medical play.

Menophilia: an obsession with menstrual blood. Fetishists of this type don't mind period sex. In fact, they may prefer it. And they might like going down on a woman when she has her period.

Merinthophilia: the fetish for bondage. See also vincilagnia.

Mess fetish (hygrophilia): if you would rather avoid the wet spot on the bed, then this kink probably isn't for you. Mess fetishists enjoy the mess created by sexual fluids, both male and female fluid. They may use the fluids as lubes, to drink, to "paint" on their partner's body or passing it back and forth orally (snowballing).

Micro fetish: the opposite of a macro fetish. Kinksters enjoy when partners are much smaller than them or being the smaller partner. Those who fall into the latter group may enjoy the feeling of being crushed during sex.

Military: a military fetish that often goes hand in hand with a uniform fetish.

Mixophilia: a kink related to watching yourself having sex. Recording sex and mirrors are two ways to enjoy this kink.

Morphophilia: people with this fetish are attracted to bodies and body parts that are different from the norm. They might enjoy amputees, dwarves, or people with deformations.

Mummification: a kink where someone is bound entirely or nearly entirely to prevent almost all movement. A vacuum bed can achieve full mummification, as can plastic wrap, but it can be dangerous if bindings prevent airflow. Mummification can also involve extreme temperatures, so hydration is a must to do it safely.

Muscles: some people have a fetish for defined or large muscles. Muscle worship is one variant of this kink.

Mysophilia: this fetish is for dirt and items that have been dirtied, especially by bodily fluids during sex. Used underwear is a common example.

N

Narratophilia: a fetish shared by those who enjoy telling and listening to dirty stories, talking about sex or incorporating dirty talk into sex.

Nasolingus: a fetish for sucking on someone's nose.

Nasophilia: fetish for noses.

Necrophilia: the fetish for human corpses.

Necrozoophilia: fetish for deceased animals.

Needle play: playing with needles can involve breaking the skin and temporary piercing. Needles can also be used to scratch.

Nullification: kink for removing any body part. This is very dangerous.

Nullo: an extreme kink for removal of genitals. In practice, nullo is very dangerous and can even be fatal.

Nyctophilia: refers to fetishizing darkness. Scotophilia has the same meaning.

O

Objectophilia (Objectum Sexuality): also known as fetishism. This refers specifically to arousal by and sexual activity with an inanimate object such as shoes, pillows, couch or the like.

Oculolinctus: desire to lick eyeballs.

Oculophilia: an obsession with the eyes.

Odaxelagnia: kink for biting or being bitten. May or may not involve blood.

Odontophilia: the general fetish for teeth, which can include biting, licking teeth or even removing them.

Olfactophilia: attraction to smells, especially pungent body odors. Osmolagnia is the fetish for sweat or gaseous emissions, specifically.

Omorashi: the Japanese word for a fetish related to having a full bladder and urinating on oneself. Often shortened to “omo.”

Orgasm denial: type of play where someone’s orgasm is denied entirely, limited/ruined or delayed.

Otherness: sexual attraction to someone from other places, including aliens. See all xenophilia and exoticism.

P

Parthenophilia: a fetish for virginal partners.

Partialism: sexual obsession for specific body parts and not the whole. Eyes, faces, forearms, and feet are all common objects of obsession, but any body part will do.

Pecattiphilia: fetish for sinning and breaking religious rules.

Pediophilia: fetish for dolls, especially sex dolls.

Penis Humiliation: a kink involving insulting a man's penis, including size, appearance, and performance.

Peodeiktophilia: showing one's penis to others (flashing).

Pet play: any kink where someone acts like a domesticated pet. Cats and dogs are especially common with leashes, collars and food/water dishes used as props.

Phalloorchoalgolagnia: arousal from pain directed toward male genitals. See also cock and ball torture (CBT).

Phallophilia: obsession with large penises.

Phobophilia: sexual obsession with being afraid. This fetish can be directed toward hate as well as fear.

Phygephilia: fetish for being a fugitive on the run.

Pictophilia: fetish for watching pornography, especially of the same actor.

Play piercing (Piquerism, Picquerism): play piercing is performed for temporary decoration as well as for the sensation of breaking the skin.

Plushophilia: fetish for stuffed animals. These people may have a kink specifically for teddy bears, and/or they may be furies.

Pony play: a kink for acting like a pony or its equestrian. “Ponies” can wear everything from blinders to bits to bridles to fake ears and hooves. Ponies are trained by their equestrians and may even do manual labor.

Psychrophilia: arousal by being cold or watching others be cold. Having sex in freezers or meat lockers or around ice might fulfill this kink.

Pregnancy: this kink goes beyond a woman’s pregnant glow. Some people just can’t get enough of a pregnant woman’s powerful and sexy body. It’s so common that there are three different names for it: preggophilia, and maieusophoria.

Psychrocism: fetish dedicated to being cold, having sex with a cold partner or using cold objects (ice cubes, cold dildos, etc) during sex.

Pteronophilia: kink for being tickled specifically by feathers.

Pubephilia: obsession with pubic hair.

Pygmalionism: sexual obsession with human-like images, especially when you made it yourself. This fetish may lead to stimulating oneself with statues or mannequins.

Pygophilia: partialism to butts and seeing, touching and playing with them.

Pyrolagnia: sexual arousal from watching or setting fires.

Pyrophilia: a fascination with fire. Setting fires and using fire during sex can be dangerous. However, massage candles can be used safely because of the wax’s low melting point, and fire cupping is not usually risky.

Q

Quirofilia: fetish for hands. Some people fetishize certain parts of the hand, such as the fingers or fingernails. Others may prefer hands of a certain size or shape. Still others with this fetish may enjoy seeing hands performing certain actions. It could be masturbation or something nonsexual, such as washing the dishes.

R

Rape fantasy: a fetish for acting out a pretend rape (consensual non-consent). This fantasy can occur on both the victim or perpetrator's sides. Arousal at the idea of rape is known as raptophilia.

Revving: kink for watching someone rev an engine, especially when they wear heels. Also known as "pedal pushing" or "pedal pumping." Sometimes referred to as gas pedal honeys.

Retifism: the fetish for shoes and footwear. Also known as altocalciphilia.

Rhabdophilia: a fetish for receiving physical beatings such as flogging or whipping.

Robotism: kink for robots, cyborgs or androids.

Ropework: a kink for rope as used as the specific type of bondage. Popular types of ropework include the Japanese-inspired shibari, more correctly called "Kinbaku".

Rimming: a kink for giving or receiving rim jobs (oral service of the anus).

S

Sadism: the kink for providing pain. Masochists and sadists often come together to meet one another's kinky needs.

Savantophilia: fetish for people who have a cognitive impairment or delay.

Sensation play: a light kink where partners exchange sensations on the skin. Items with different textures (soft, hard, bumpy, smooth, cold, hot, etc.) can be run across the skin. Pain isn't involved, but you can alternate between pain and sensation during light BDSM play.

Sensory deprivation: any play that prevents someone from using one of their five senses. Blindfolds block sight, gloves prevent touch, earmuffs deprive the sense of hearing, etc.

Siderodromophilia: a fetish for trains or engaging in sexual activity on a train.

Slime fetish: a kink for slime and slimy things. Tentacles are a prime example of a slime fetish in popular media. This fetish is closely related to the mess fetish.

Sneezing Fetish: a kink for watching someone else sneeze. This person is usually naked. Sneezing elicits a bodily response somewhat similar to orgasm. People with a sneeze fetish might also participate in tickling and forced urinating kinks.

Snuff: a fantasy fetish for killing someone or being killed. Snuff is often considered to be an urban legend, and it's obviously deadly and illegal in practice.

Somnophilia: the fetish for sexual partners who are asleep. It is a rare fetish. People with this fascination may enjoy the "sleeping princess" trope. In reality, a partner should specify prior consent to sexual activity that happens or begins while they are asleep because sleeping people cannot give consent. Definitions differ, however.

Sounding: a kink for inserting thin tubes, usually made of glass or metal, into the urethra. This is one of the most common forms of urethral play. Kinksters often use medical sounds or similar tools, and sounding can be part of medical play.

Spanking: this is a fetish that many people have tried in the bedroom. A firm hand comes into play as punishment or enticement in many power exchange relationships, including domestic discipline relationships and schoolgirl role-play. You might enjoy spanking from time to time even if you don't consider yourself all that kinky, but spanking can also be quite extreme.

Stigmatophilia: the fetish for piercings and sometimes tattoos. See body modification fetish.

Stockings: items that are often fetishized. Some people like all of them. Others prefer those that are lace-topped, hooked to a garter belt or with a visible seam down the back.

Strap-on: fetish specifically for using strap-ons. Anal, oral or vaginal penetration can be achieved. Anally penetrating a partner with a strap-on is known as pegging.

Stygiophilia: arousal by thoughts of hell and eternal damnation.

Stuffing: eating until the point of physical pain.

Suspension: the practice of suspending someone from the ground or being suspended yourself. Suspension can be accomplished with ropes, harnesses and other devices and items.

Symphorophilia: fetish for watching car accidents or other traumatic incidents.

T

Taphephilia: fetish for being buried alive. This may be connected to an imprisonment kink. Dangerous in practice if oxygen is cut off.

Teasing (Tantalolagnia): To enjoy teasing as sexual gratification. This may be prolonged sexual teasing or teasing in the form of insults and ribbing.

Technophilia: a fetish for any technology such as robots, AI and sex machines. Kinks for cybernetic enhancements fall into this category, and some may fetishize the idea of amputations.

Teleiophilia: the erotic preference for persons between the age of physical maturity and the onset of middle-age.

Telephonicophilia: the fetish for phone sex and dirty talking over the phone.

Tentacle fetish: fetish for tentacles. Many people enjoy animated erotica/pornography with tentacles, and tentacles dildos also lend to this fantasy.

Teratophilia: attraction to people with bodily deformities. This umbrella term includes several other fetishes on this list, including stigmatophilia, morphophilia, and acrotomophilia. However, it may also refer to a sexual attraction to “actual” monsters.

Thesauromania: kink for collecting women’s clothing. The collector may focus on specific items/categories, such as underwear.

Tickling (Knismolagnia, Knismo, Titillagnia): while tickling can be a form of teasing, it’s a kink in its own right for some people. Those who enjoy tickling may enjoy surrendering control or struggling to retain it. Tickling to the point of urinating is also one flavor of this fetish. Tickle torture is a kink for tickling or being tickled while bound.

Transformation fetish: kink for transforming into other people or even non-human creatures. TF is common in hentai and some written erotica.

Trichophilia: hair fetish.

Triolism: a fetish for threesomes. This may include a kink for watching your partner have sex with someone else.

Tripsolagnophilia: massage fetish. Even if you don’t have a fetish, a sensual massage can be relaxing and it’s good foreplay!

U

Underwear fetish: the fascination with underwear, usually women’s underwear. Men with this fetish will collect, wear or smell underwear.

Uniforms: fetish for someone who wears a uniform. Could be military, police, fireman. Or could be as simple as a work uniform like an apron and chef’s hat. Can be related to being dominated by someone wearing a uniform as it makes them seem more strict. Also, can be a costume fetish or cosplay.

Ursusagalmatophilia: kink for teddy bears or dressing up as a teddy bear/animal.

Urtication: using the nettle plant to sting a partner's skin.

V

Vaccinophilia: vaccination fetish. See also medical play and belonephilia.

Vicarphilia: being sexually vicarious, specifically related to enjoying other's stories of sexual activity.

Vincilagnia: kink for being tied up and at the mercy of another person. This is a type of bondage fetish.

Vomit Fetish (Emetophilia): a sexual obsession with the act or substance of vomit.

Vore/Vorarephilia : sexual desire to be eaten alive or to eat someone while they are still alive. Often seen as giantess/amazon women eating smaller men/women.

Voyeurism: a kink for watching someone else while naked or engaged in sexual activity.

W

Wax play: applying hot wax to the skin. Can involve using wax during sex. May be dangerous if skin-safe wax is not used.

Weapon fetish: sexual arousal due to weapons.

Wet and messy (WAM) fetish: being turned on by being soiled by things other than bodily fluids. Also known as splashing. This can include food.

X

Xenophilia: sexual attraction to exotic people or objects.

Xylophilia: fetish for wood. It may also be described as an attraction to nature, sexual or in general.

Y

Yeastiality: sexual activity involving bread, especially warm dough. This may be an alleged kink. Introducing yeast to the genitals can lead to an infection.

Yiffing: sex with stuffed animals or a furry.

Z

Zelophilia: arousal due to jealousy, either your own or someone's jealousy over you. Cuckold fantasies are one such example where men know – and sometimes watch – their wives engaging in affairs.

Zentai: wearing skintight suits while grinding against others in similar suits.

Zoophilia: dressing like an animal for sex or feeling romantic attraction to animals.

Zoosexual: sexual attraction to animals. See bestiality.
